

- 17 -

ABSTRACT

The detection of low energy neutrons is improved using a capture material which reacts to incident particles or electromagnetic energy by emitting radiation which is more easily detected by a conventional solid state detection
5 device.